PROFILE

Instructional designer with a Master's degree in Didactics and hands-on EFL teaching experience, including Training Needs Analysis and learner-profile assessment. Trained in the ADDIE framework, Bloom's Taxonomy, and Adult Learning Theory (Andragogy), with four self-directed, production-ready eLearning modules built in Articulate Storyline 360 and Articulate Rise 360 spanning compliance, safety, and workplace communication content. My proof of skill is the portfolio itself: fully built, interactive courses deployable on a Learning Management System (LMS), demonstrating the instructional and technical competencies an employer needs on day one.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

English Language Teacher 2024 – Present

- Conduct learner Needs Analysis to design and differentiate instructional materials aligned to clear learning objectives for classes of 15–30 students, adapting content for diverse learning profiles including English Language Learners (ELL) and students with Individualized Education Plans (IEPs).
- Apply Adult Learning Theory (Andragogy) principles to plan and deliver structured lessons with defined learning outcomes, tracking learner progress and adjusting instruction to close comprehension gaps.
- Collaborate with a multidisciplinary team (parents, counselors, administrators) to design and implement customized learning plans.
- Apply the same learner-centered, objective-driven approach used in formal instructional design to day-to-day lesson planning and delivery.

Intern, Translation Office 2022 – 2023

- Translated official, administrative, and financial documents between English, French, and Arabic (~10/month), maintaining strict terminological accuracy across legal, medical, and technical texts.
- Shadowed senior interpreters and developed tailored multilingual resources for cross-language projects.
